Subject: Information regarding the transition to PFAS-free outdoor fabrics

Dear Customer,

In light of the European Regulation 2024/2462 mandating the ban of PFAS (perfluoroalkyl and polyfluoroalkyl substances) in outdoor fabrics starting from October 2027, we would like to update you on the actions our company is taking to ensure the full compliance and sustainability of our products.
This ban will affect all our cushions and the sunloungers' canvas.

Working closely with our fabric suppliers, we have already begun the transition towards using materials with completely "PFAS-free" finishes. Our supplier Sunbrella has finalized the transition to non-PFAS solutions for all furnishing fabrics during 2024, in anticipation of the upcoming REACH restrictions, while the remaining suppliers has started to supply PFAS free products by the second half of this year.

Despite the prompt and quick reaction from our supply chain, we are currently still in an operational transition phase. To ensure a smooth changeover ahead of the ban taking effect in October 2027, current supplies and deliveries may still include fabrics and cushions treated with PFAS. This will continue until the complete depletion of warehouse stock produced prior to the introduction of the new finishes by our suppliers.

Our goal is to complete the disposal of old stock and the final transition to the new materials well before the regulatory deadline, ensuring the continuity and quality that have always distinguished us.

We remain at your complete disposal for any further clarification or information.

Best regards,

NARDI S.p.A.
