● How to get mildew stains off my mattress?

Mix an equal amount of rubbing alcohol and warm water in a container.

Dip a clean cloth into the mixture, wring out the excess, and run the stain in a circular motion.

Rinse the area with a cloth dampened with water.

Place the mattress out in the sun to dry out and to prevent more mold from growing.

● What if I spilled some liquid on my mattress?

For water, please quickly soak up all liquid with dry towels or tissue paper. Then let your mattress dry completely, preferably in direct sunlight.

If the liquid has a strong odor or dark color, sprinkle baking soda directly on the wet area. If the stain has dried, spray some water on the stain first, then sprinkle the baking soda over the top. Then, rub the mixture into the mattress. Regardless, let your mattress dry completely. Then, vacuum up the baking soda.
