

Care & Maintenance

Our storage and maintenance recommendations prioritize preserving the soil's vitality, aligning with the garden bed's main function.

- When leaving your garden bed outside for the winter months, we recommend storing it under cover to avoid the elements, if possible.
- Keep the garden bed's drain plug open when left outside to allow rainwater to drain, preventing accumulation and maintaining soil aeration.
- Leaving the garden bed outside when the temperature drops below freezing is fine. Soil microbes may enter a state of dormancy or slow down their metabolic activity.
- To preserve your garden bed's soil health outdoors in warm weather without plants, keep the soil adequately moist to support microbial activity. Top-dress with organic matter to provide a food source for microbes.
- Grease the casters once a year using high-quality bearing grease.
