

Our design idea is coming from the Killer Whales.

Killer Whales are known to be the most fierce dolphin family animals and the best top hunters in the ocean and most intelligent, but normally are friendly to human beings.

When our designer was watching a video about grampus jumping in the air, a flash of light came into his mind that a new knife like grampus would be a good idea. After three months, the shape of the knife's handle was gradually modified and completed. The 3D printed mockup and 1st lot samples off-tooling were made for practical and functional testing. All approved in another three months for mass production.

Like the Killer Whales in the ocean, our knives are aimed to be the best ones with strong durability, smart concept and best functionality.

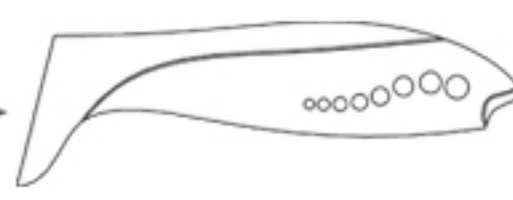

Original shape of killer whale

Extract the primary shape

Optimize the contour profile and lines

Finalize the design