Compressed Sofa Recovery Instruction Card

Upgraded Illustrated Version

1 Step 1 Unbox Carefully

Remove the packaging on a clean, flat surface. Avoid sharp tools that may scratch the fabric. Inspect the sofa upon unboxing.

2 Step 2 Full Fluffing & Shaking

Pat, squeeze and shake the cushions, backrest and armrests from all angles to release the compressed inner foam and accelerate primary rebound.

3 Step 3 Manual Fabric Finishing

Manually stretch and smooth the sofa cover, tidy up uneven fabric and creases, and shape the sofa outline initially.

4 Step 4 Steam Wrinkle Removal (Optional)

For stubborn deep wrinkles, use a low-temperature handheld steam iron for distance steam ironing. Never dry-iron at high temperature, press hard, or iron directly on the fabric.

Product Feature Explanation

This product uses professional vacuum-compression packaging to reduce transport volume and protect the product. After 1-4 months of sealed compression during transit and storage, temporary fabric wrinkles and slow foam rebound are normal

Warm Reminder

Vacuum compression is a standard process for high-density sponge sofas. Temporary flattening and creases after long-term compression are normal. Please wait patiently for natural recovery.

Professional Rebound Cycle

At normal room temperature and ventilation:

98% shape recovery within 48 hours after unboxing and finishing

Full plump, flawless state within 7-15 days of natural placement and daily use

Prohibitions

No high-temperature dry ironing

No hard pressing during ironing

No direct contact with fabric when steaming

Please keep this instruction card for future reference.
