CORE recommends following best building practices for installing these panels per their intended purpose. CORE's warranty covers the material integrity of our products, and it is up to the installer to assume responsibility for the installation. Always consult a professional if in doubt. Some installs may require building approval and we recommended checking with the according authorities to determine any building codes or standards for your project.

CORE's Privacy Screen Panels must be mounted in a vertical plane and must not be submerged or in constant contact with water, soil, or chemicals.

CORE Privacy screens are warranted against the following: cracking, blistering, warping, rotting, abnormal discoloration and fading under normal atmosphere and weather conditions. CORE's limited warranty does not include the following: cover damage resulting from improper storage, handling, installation, damage from weather, or any horizontal roofing/ceiling application.

Note: CORE's warranty does not cover the reinstallation of warranted screens.
