Position the leg screws to match the holes at the bottom of the main body, then tighten in a clockwise direction until secure.

Thread the line shown in the figure through the curved pipe and pull it out.

Align the threaded end of the curved pipe with the base of the horn, then tighten to secure the installation.

Match and secure the clasps between the body and horn wires, feed the cables into the tube, then attach the large horn to the gramophone pipe.

For the final step, simply align the horn with the gramophone body pipe and press down until it clicks into place—ready for use.
