A good sense of direction

The Enso Ribbed Gray 24x48 Matte Porcelain Tile is well-suited to statement walls and surprising installations. A goes-with-anything gray hue complements its subtle relief pattern, while multiple angles give the collection a decidedly modern vibe. Enso's large format requires less grout, so the wood look is nearly seamless—whether installed in a kitchen backsplash or outdoor shower.

Clean, articulated design

Modern geometry meets midcentury inspiration in the Enso collection. This wood-look porcelain tile features a versatile ribbed pattern that gives the appearance of wood-grain period paneling—with a twist: Enso's ridges go in four different directions. Advanced porcelain technology and a pleasing palette of neutrals provide realism; the fresh design itself lends visual interest.

Fake it and make it new

Wood paneling was once the province of dark dens and stuffy libraries. Thanks to enhanced production methods, a modern palette, and a bit of nostalgia, you can get the dimensional look of ribbed wood on your walls—with all the performance and permanence of porcelain. The Enso collection refreshes a retro look with style.
