Materials: Cathedral White Oak Veneers & Select Solids

Finish: All the lumber is heavily distressed lending to the style, and the bases are finished in a chalk white finish with rub-through while the tops have a medium brown finish with warm undertones.

Inspiration: The Chambers occasional and entertainment collection introduces a genuine farmhouse style by utilizing, amongst other things, pronounced linear design, exposed joinery, two rustic finishes, and substantial functionality. Offering two different cocktail tables of various look and function, options are abounding in the new Chambers collection depending on the consumers' individual needs,

Number of Pieces: 6

Description: Lending to the farmhouse style, Chambers features primitive design elements including generous proportions, square peg in round hole exposed joinery, beadboard ends on the planked tops with chamfered corners, and bulky square legs that taper at the bottom.

The collection includes five occasional tables and one entertainment console. As previously mentioned, two cocktail tables are offered: a rectangular coffee table (50"x 30"x 18") with two bottom drawers, open storage between the drawers and the top, and a lift-top; and a round cocktail table (38"x 18") with a bottom shelf for open storage. Both coffee tables come standard with removable casters.

The other three occasional tables include an end table (24"x 28"x 24") with a single bottom drawer and space on the shelf above for open storage, a chairside table (16"x 26"x 25") with a bottom and middle shelf, and a sofa table with a bottom shelf and two open compartments below the top for additional storage, including components if the consumer wants to use it as a TV console. The 68"x 25" entertainment console wraps up the collection, featuring three large bottom drawers and open storage above for component storage.
