With shades made from recycled paper that has been twisted like braided hair, the Monreale Chandelier, designed by Clarence Mallari, has a frame made of round tubing that telescopes out from a central cog. The paper is painted white and the wrought iron frame has a vanilla finish that contributes to the lightness of this ivory chandelier. The shades are fitted with acrylic diffusers on the bottoms and there are no transformers because the fixture has integrated LED technology.

We also offer the Monreale as a rectangular chandelier.
