MAINTENANCE AND CARE

1. Pest Protection: Wooden furniture is vulnerable to pest infestations, especially termites. To prevent this, avoid placing furniture in damp areas or corners, as excessive moisture encourages the growth of insects and accelerates wood decay. During seasons with heavy rainfall, such as the southern rainy season, it's important to ensure proper ventilation to remove indoor moisture and keep the environment dry. Using a dehumidifier or air conditioner can help maintain dryness in the space and protect the wood.
2. Sun Protection: Wooden furniture should not be exposed to direct sunlight for extended periods, as UV rays can cause internal moisture to rise, leading to cracks and dryness. When choosing where to place wooden furniture, make sure to avoid direct sunlight.
3. Keep Away from Fire: Wooden furniture should be kept away from open flames to prevent fire hazards. Additionally, keeping furniture away from fire sources helps maintain a balance of internal and external moisture in the wood.
4. Regular Maintenance: Over time, the oil on the surface of wooden furniture will gradually evaporate. To maintain its appearance and extend its lifespan, regularly apply furniture oil or polish to replenish the oil and protect the wood.
5. Regular Cleaning: Regular cleaning is important to prevent bacteria from accumulating. Use a vacuum cleaner to remove dust from under beds and furniture to keep the environment clean and hygienic.
